24. Company Overview: Milliken has existed for more than 150 years and has innovated many products that ‘Do Good’ over that time frame. Our various divisions hold over 2,200 U.S. patents, and more than 5,000 patents worldwide. Milliken innovations have led to clarifying agents, so people can see what’s in their Tupperware, and flame-retardant fabrics that protect firefighters, just to name a few. Milliken makes high-performance fabrics for military personnel and wound-care treatments for the Department of Defense. We’ve handled full-service renovation and new construction floor covering installations for federal, state, and local entities — and for the military, too. We keenly understand the expectations governments at each of these levels have for suppliers. We have plenty of experience dealing with preferred government price schedules, procurement procedures, and regulations.

We are a one-stop shop and we’ll handle the entire process from purchase, through prep, installation, and maintenance. You make one call, cut one PO, communicate with one point of contact, and have one dedicated resource — from start to finish. A broad spectrum of experts will analyze, and ultimately deliver, a solution unique to you.

100% of our modular carpet products meet Red List Free standards (per the Living Building Challenge), and are third-party verified. We are the only carpet company who can make that claim — evidence of our strong commitment to healthy ingredients and transparency. Milliken also supports the WELL Building Standard™, with its focus on the effects of buildings and behaviors on people, rather than on the building as an end in itself. The next wave of sustainability will be about much more than simply an end-of-life story, and Milliken has long embraced such an approach. We are a people-focused company: The health and wellness of the people who use our products has always been a guiding principle for us.
